NOTICE TO PROPRIETORS OF CERTAIN LANDS IN THE STATE OF MAINE.

THE Legislature of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts by a Resolve passed 1st April, 1836, directed the Land Agent of said Commonwealth, to give notice to sundry proprietors of lands in the State of Maine who were required by a condition contained in the original deeds of conveyance from the Commonwealth to place a certain number of families on their respective tracts, and requiring them to furnish evidence of the fulfilment of said condition or pay the sum of $30 for each family deficient on the first day of June 1836, or the lands would be declared forfeited

Pursuant to said Resolve, notice was soon after given to all the proprietors of lands, subject to said condition, most of whom have complied therewith, and removed the incumbrance The proprietors, however of the following townships or tracts, have not responded to the notice, neither have they (so far as is known in this office) settled for or complied with said condition, viz In the County of Cumberland—a gore of land lying between the towns of Raymond and Otisfield, formerly conveyed to Samuel Phillips

County of Franklin—Township Letter D conveyed to Jonathan Gardner, and number two and number three in the third range

County of Oxford—Letter A No 1 now the town of Riley, and A No 3 now the town of Newry

County of Somerset—A half township No 2 1st range north of Bingham's Kennebec purchase, granted to the Trustees of Sandwich Academy

County of Penobscot—Township No 1 on the west side of Penobscot River granted to the Maine Literary and Theological Institution, now the town of Argyle, South half of township No 3 5th range North of the Waldo patent granted to C Drowne and others, and the north half of township No 6 6th range granted to the Trustees of Warren Academy

County of Washington—Township No 3 1st range west of Passamaquoddy River, granted to Samuel Hinckley No 1 4th range ditto granted to Williams College now called Vincebaugh and a half township on the Eastern boundary line granted to the Trustees of Limerick Academy now called New Limerick

The undersigned is required by a late resolve of the Legislature of Massachusetts passed the 14th day of March last again to give notice to said proprietors and to take such measures as he may deem to be necessary to recover to the Commonwealth the possession of any of the above named townships or tracts of land from such proprietor as shall have failed on the first day of December next of complying with the requisition of the Resolve of the first day of April 1836

CELEBRATED SHERRY WINE

BITTERS.

THE Proprietor of this Medicine offers to the Public the result of an extensive practice and a thorough investigation of the laws which govern the human system

It cannot be denied by those who have become acquainted with the singular virtues of these Bitters that they possess a preeminence over all others now in use for the diseases which they profess to cure

It is a well known fact that most diseases arise from a derangement of the Stomach and Bowels in some form adult and declining life

"The stomach crammed with mere dish
A tomb of roast and boiled and flesh and fish,
Where Bile and wind, and phlegm and acid jar
And all the man is one intestine war"

The extensive sympathies which subsist between these and every other part of the living body is the foundation of nervous diseases of all kinds—Irregular Appetite, Languor Drowsiness Wandering Pains Headache Downess of Spirits, &c

And these in their turn give birth to Dyspepsia Palpitation of the Heart, Shortness of Breath Jaundice, Piles Fevers Inflammatory Humors, Coughs and a host of diseases which embitter life and poison all sources of enjoyment

The distinguished character of these Bitters is most strikingly their operation being more or less powerful according to the violence of the disease When used in appropriate quantity, in cases of slight derangement of the Stomach and Bowels caused by costiveness or a slight bilious debility and the like where nature needs assistance to prevent more serious consequences they will be sorely felt

On the contrary in obstinate cases, they frequently operate more powerfully, causing two or three evacuations daily, and the circulating fluid becomes purified This accomplished, they act on the system in connection with our food each receiving mutual assistance until the patient is restored to a state of health and renewed vigor

Notice to Mill Owners.

THE undersigned having purchased one half of the right of making vending and using VALENTINES PATENT CAST IRON WATER WHEELS, for the United States, have at a great expense fitted up patterns for casting twenty one different sizes of these Wheels, which are particularly adapted to the various heads of water for which they may be wanted.

Upwards of two hundred of these Wheels have been put in operation in this State within the past year, giving perfect satisfaction to the purchasers

A model of these Wheels was tested at Lowell Mass the past summer, by a Board of Engineers, composed of Thomas A Beard and James B Francis Esqs of Lowell, and E. A. Straw Esq of Manchester, and it was afterwards placed in the hall of the Mechanics' Fair, at their last exhibition in Boston, and received the only diploma awarded on water wheels

We annex an extract from the certificate of E A Straw, Esq one of the board of engineers giving a statement of the experiments made with the model at Lowell which establishes the great superiority of the Valentine Wheel over any of the kind in use

MANCHESTER, July 11, 1844

Dear Sir—I send you the results of several experiments made at Lowell the other day with your Model of Valentine's Patent Regulating Wheel I consider the trial to have been a very fair one and the results are certainly very creditable to your wheel, I think they prove conclusively that your wheel is at least 50 per cent stronger than any of the Tub or Reacting Wheels now in general use

The coefficient of effect, or per centage of power derived from well constructed Breast or Overshot Wheels acting under favorable circumstances is usually reckoned at 66 per cent and that of Undershot, Tub and Reacting Wheels at 35 per cent; but in nine cases out of ten in practice I think it will be found that the power derived from Breast Wheels will not exceed 60 per cent of the power applied, or the power derived from Tub, Undershot or Reacting Wheels 25 per cent of the power applied; indeed I know of well constructed Tub Wheels acting apparently under favorable circumstances that do not give a coefficient of effect equal to 20 per ct

With the results of your wheel before us it needs no arguments to show how vastly superior it is to such Wheels as I have mentioned The least result obtained from your wheel gives us about 42 per cent. of the power applied, which is nearly double of the power that could be derived from the common wheels before mentioned, acting under the same circumstances

I have added nothing to the coefficient of effect for the friction of the wheel and apparatus which, according to our measure of it, was 40 lbs, or 1 10th of the heaviest weight raised If this were added, as perhaps it should be to get at the a tual effect of your wheel, it would give as the result of all the trials a coefficient of effect of 50 per cent which I have no hesitation in saying is a result that may be obtained from any wheel similar to the model, well constructed and acting under favorable circumstances.

Experiments No's 1 2 and 3, were made without back water Ex. No 1,400 lbs lifted 9½ feet—fall 5 08 feet—effect 42 3-10 per cent 2,400 lbs lifted 9½ feet—fall 5 08 ft—effect 41 9-10 per cent 3,400 lbs lifted 9-12 ft—fall 5 7 feet—effect 42 5-10 per cent.

The mean of experiments No's 1, 2 and 3 would be 42 4-10 per cent without the friction, in all an average of about 47 per cent, which may be considered as the effect of your wheel when working free from back water

In experiments No's 4, 5, and 6 the wheel was immersed in back water, but was very evidently overloaded.

In experiments No's 7, 8 and 9, wheel was immersed in back water.

Ex No 7 296 lbs lifted 9 1 2 feet high—fall 4 006 ft—effect 47 3-10 per cent 8,296 lbs lifted 9 1-2 ft—fall 4,021 ft—effect 38 3-10 per cent 9 296 lbs lifted 9½ feet—fall 4.01 feet—effect 46 1 10 per cent.

The mean of experiments 7, 8 and 9, would be 43 6-10 per cent besides the friction, in all an average of about 53 per cent, which may be considered as the effect of your wheel when working just immersed in back water.

For Representatives.

WILLIAM PAINE,
SAMUEL H. DALE.

THE NEXT TRIAL.

The Whigs of Bangor should remember that the next trial for Representatives will take place on Monday the 22d inst. at 10 o'clk A. M. A little exertion will secure the election of their candidates, whose names we have inserted under our editorial head.

☞ There is quite too much of a disposition, on the part of Editors and others, to settle the whole question of guilt or innocence connected with the late mournful case of Mr. Gough.—We have endeavored to give all the principal facts in the case not doubting that by an honest waiting we shall at length arrive at the truth of the case. The case thus far, whoever was in the first fault, teaches, with a trumpet-tongue, this lesson—that the evils of intemperance are of great strength and proportions, and that the indulgence of intoxication undermines the physical and moral constitutions, and plants the seeds of death in them, which may shoot forth at any moment. The indulgence of intoxication prepares the body, like a magazine, for an explosion upon the slightest touch of the match.

The case of Mr. Gough, then, is a new argument—to the young, especially—to avoid intoxication. His case is a new argument to the reformed drunkard to redouble his caution. His case is a forcible appeal to the moderate drinker to abandon the tempting cup that allures but to destroy. His case is an admonition to all the friends of temperance to enter with new life into the moral conflict against the artful destroyer of our race—Alcohol. His case will furnish him, with new capital and fresh zeal in his future labors, and humble him in closer reliance upon his Maker for support. It may be that in the Providence of God this heart-sorrowing evil may be of essential service—it will be, if any considerable portion of the community had come to rely upon Mr. Gough rather than God, for the furtherance of the great enterprise of temperance.

National Police Gazette.

This is the title of a new paper published in the city of New York by Messrs. Camp & Wilkes. It is designed as a swift winged messenger to convey to the police department throughout the Union, with whom the publishers will be in regular correspondence, accounts of thefts and robberies, descriptions of the property stolen, and all other matters of information tending to bring the guilty to justice. It will also give descriptions of all the notorious rogues, pick pockets and miscreants known to the police of the large cities, and thus give the public such information as shall place them on their guard.

It will contain advertisements of stolen property, and a most complete list of counterfeit bills in circulation, the time and place of their first appearance, and all matters of interest in the police department, together with graphic sketches of notorious felons.

The number before us contains notices of property stolen within the last few weeks, and yet unrecovered, amounting in value to over two hundred thousand dollars. The specific rewards offered amount to over $500, and in many cases no specific sum is stated.

This is a work, which if faithfully conducted, and this is certainly to be expected, will be of essential service to all police officers, and to the public. It will be published once a week at two dollars a year, and slips are to be sent to all their correspondents when any information of an important character is received, either day or night.

☞ The Editor of the Gardiner Cold Water Fountain stated in his paper sometime since that Mr. Ephraim Swett of Belfast was a rum-seller and called his establishment "a breathing hole of hell." He was sued for a libel, and upon trial recently was acquitted, whereupon he repeats the charge in the same form. Now it seems to us there is no need of trying to seek for any worse name than a rum shop, as that is about the worst name we know of. But every one to his taste. We are much surprised to learn by the Belfast Journal that the editor of the Fountain was acquitted on some nice point of law and not because the libel was justified, and what is vastly more important that Mr. Swett does not keep a rum hole but is a worthy and respectable man.

There is a great difference between the statements of these two editors—more of a difference than there should be if they have equal opportunities of ascertaining the facts in the case. Is the difference one of fact or in the mode adopted of expressing the fact? Please explain.

☞ A letter in the Philadelphia U. S. Gazette of Monday, from Pernambuco, under date of July 29, states that there was at that time lying at that port, a steamer, called the Cacique, fitting out openly for the coast of Africa, for a cargo of slaves. She is said to be the same vessel known at New York as the Cygnus, and to have been altered in her rig to that of a brig, masted schooner, with paddle wheels substituted for a propeller. The owner, captain and crew are Portuguese, and the engineer and firemen Americans. She flies Brazilian colors, and is said to be lying in company with two Brazilian man-of-war brigs, taking aboard her casks, &c., and it is publicly known that she is going to the coast of Africa for a cargo of slaves.

☞ The pic-nic of the Mechanic Association promises to be a grand affair. Some of the women are about taking hold of the matter in order to add suitable decorations to the entertainment and the surroundings. Nothing will be omitted that is necessary to make the entertainment one to be desired.

Montevideo.

Com. Turner, in a letter to the Secretary of the Navy, dated Montevideo, June 20, says—"I find the war continues as it did when I left here, in December last—Gen. Oribe, outside of Montevideo, besieging it with a large army; and the party inside of Montevideo, about seven thousand strong, determined to resist to the last. The English and French have a large naval force in the river, and their agents are at Buenos Ayers, endeavoring to make peace between the belligerents."

☞ Thomas Chadwick (Whig) was chosen representative for Portland on Wednesday. Two vacancies.

☞ Aaron Hayden, Esq. Whig, was chosen representative from Eastport at the third trial.

☞ By a correspondence, published in the Cincinnati Herald, we learn that a discussion is to take place in that city between two clergymen on the subject of slavery; commencing on the first day of October. The question is as follows:

"Is slave-holding in itself sinful, and the relation between master and slave a sinful relation."

Rev. Mr Blanchard takes the affirmative, Rev. Dr Rice the negative.

☞ An exchange paper says that a gentleman in Boston has a child nine years old, who reads the Hebrew Bible with fluency, and all the more simple parts without previous examination, and without the aid of a lexicon. He began to learn the language when six years old, and before he had learned Greek or Latin. He has since commenced the study of the bible in Greek; and the plan of the father is to teach him the Latin Bible, after he has mastered the Greek, thus completely reversing the order of the schools.

☞ A fine band of warriors of the Iowa tribe are now at Hoboken, N. Y., having arrived there a few days since from Europe, in the principal capitals of which they were received with marked attention by royalty and nobility. In Paris at one of the public performances there were twenty thousand persons present.

☞ A special meeting of the general Board of Baptist Foreign Missions is to be held in Philadelphia on Wednesday, Sept. 24th. The question of the transfer of certain Missions to the Southern Baptist Convention, and also the consideration of any claim which either convention may have upon the other, will also occupy the attention of the Board.

☞ The science of imbuing the minds of the rising generation with the elements of aristocracy, is pronounced by the United States Journal to be the science of Haughty-culture, or a method of refining the breed of pumpkins.

☞ Mr Charles Farley has recently commenced the manufacture of wire at Harrison village in this State.

The Mayor of New York city has undertaken to stop the sale of meats on Sundays.

The late Judge Story.

From a brief biographical sketch of Justice Story, contributed to the columns of the Salem Register, we copy the following facts in relation to his parentage, and the official stations he has occupied with so much ability and honor:

"Judge Story was born in Marblehead, on the 18th Sept. 1779, just 66 years ago. He was the eldest child of a respectable physician, Dr. Elisha Story, by his second marriage, and by the early death of his father, sustained the parental relation to the numerous junior members of his family, and was the stay and the staff of his aged mother, who still survives him in a vigorous old age, and with an unimpaired intellect. He entered college in his sixteenth year, and graduated in 1798. In college he was distinguished by that indefatigable industry which has been his characteristic through life! Whilst there he studied sixteen hours a day, leaving only eight hours for sleep and exercise. In 1801 he commenced the practice of law in Salem, engaged ardently in politics, and soon obtained a large business. In 1806 he was elected by the democratic party a representative to the General Court, and in 1808 was chosen to Congress from Essex South district. He declined a re-election to Congress, was sent again to the Legislature, and at the Jan session 1811, was chosen Speaker of the House. In October, 1811, although only 32 years of age, he was appointed by Mr. Madison to the office of Judge of the Supreme Court, which office he held at the time of his death.

Judge Story was early married to a daughter of the Rev. Daniel Oliver, who died within a year of her marriage. He afterwards married the daughter of Judge William Wetmore, (the present Mrs. Story.)

Judge Story was always an able financier, and from the incorporation of the Merchants' Bank, in Salem, he was a Director, and for many years President; and under his advice, all those illegal and usurious practices then common were discarded, and it became a model Bank. By his judicious management of his works and pecuniary affairs, he has left a larger fortune than any other lawyer in New England ever acquired from his profession, notwithstanding he was most liberal in every public undertaking, and munificent in his benefactions to those friends to whom he was a father and a counsellor."

American Artists.

The European correspondent of the Boston Traveller thus speaks in a late letter:—

"AMERICAN ARTISTS appear to acquire a great reputation in the old world; we hear of their success in turning from their chisels unrivalled pieces of sculpture in far-famed Italy, and we hear of the patronage bestowed by kings upon America's artists, who are sent back to their own country to paint portraits of distinguished men. Recent accounts from Constantinople state that the English Consul-General at that place, Mr Cartwright, after holding office thirty years, signified his intention to return to England. He received many tokens from his numerous friends of the high estimation in which he was held there, and among these tokens of esteem the most flattering was a request that he would sit for his portrait, as his friends wished to have it, that it might be hung up in the Chancellerie, and this became a public evidence of their appreciation of his character as a public man in the very important crisis he was called upon to perform so many years. Mr. Cartwright complied with the request, and an American artist was selected to paint his portrait; his name is not unknown in his own country, although his talents are better appreciated abroad than at home. Young Kellogg is considered an artist of very great promise, and he was chosen to paint the portrait of Mr. Cartwright; he also painted a monument over one of Riza Pacha.—Thus it is, many of our artists vainly endeavor to acquire a name and a living at home, while in foreign countries they immediately acquire an exalted position. I need only to refer to the usual encomiums bestowed by the leading journals and the public upon Power's inimitable statue of the "Greek Slave," that was lately exhibited in this metropolis. How long will it be before Americans themselves will appreciate the original and powerful talent that is now scattered over their vast territory unheeded and unseen? Must foreigners discover these brilliant gems for us? must they reap all the benefit of the discovery? forbid it, millionaires of (illegible) America!"

Cassius M. Clay.

The Cincinnati Gazette of Sept. 11, contains the following letter from this noble-hearted son of Kentucky, who we rejoice to learn is recovering from his late exposition—and his enemies and the enemies of freedom, will soon have reason to know that "Richard is himself again." The letter is in reply to one from the Cincinnati Committee, appointed at the meeting of the citizens of that place to take some measures relative to the press of the True American. The Committee inform him that the press is safe, and tender him their services in any way in which they can aid him.

LEXINGTON, Ky., September 4th, 1845.

Benjamin Urner, James S. Gibbons, Jacob Ernst, Oliver Lovell, Geo. W. Phillips, R. G. Mitchell, James Calhoun:

Gentlemen,—I have just received your letter of the 27th ult., enclosing the proceedings of the citizens of Cincinnati and their resolutions in public meeting.

Their words of kindness and generous appreciation and noble and dignified avowal, have moved me more than all the studied cruelties and wrongs of my enemies, though I was unnerved by disease, and threatened, for long days and nights, with a horrible death.

I thank you that you have not allowed the calumnious manifesto of the revolutionists of the 18th of August to weaken your confidence in my loyalty to the constitution and laws. I thank you that you have seen nothing in the past to cause you to lose confidence in the future; that my "measures and means" will be "safe, practicable and peaceble."

I thank you, that you deem my "work high and holy," and for the reverent and soul-sustaining invocation of Divine protection on me and on it.

You, gentlemen, have taken me upon trust; the time for my defence will come with my re-established health, when I venture to say, your sentence will not be revoked by "Kentucky and the world."

I shall allude to only one charge, going the rounds of the papers—that there was a compromise between me and the Rebels of the 18th, and that I agreed to discontinue the publication of the True American provided they would spare the press. It is unnecessary for me to say to you, who have seen my letter addressed to the meeting, as well as my previous handbills addressed to the people, that this story is calumnious and morally impossible. It is enough that the Committee of Sixty have authorized the Lexington Observer and Reporter to state that no such proposition came from me or any of my friends. This attempt, therefore, to degrade me, on the part of those who failed to destroy me, is of a piece with this whole outrage of cruelty and wrong, as I shall be able to show as soon as my health will allow.

I hope I shall be able to show that I am neither a 'madman' nor a 'lunatic.'

They who sent back from Thermopylæ the sublime message, 'Go tell it in Lacedæmon that we died here in obedience to her laws'—the Roman who returned to captivity and to death that his country might be saved—Sydney, Hampden and Russell—Emmett, who uttered the mighty instincts of a great soul, 'the man dies, but his memory lives'—Adams, who exclaimed, 'Survive or perish, I am for the declaration'—Henry, who cried 'Give me liberty, or give me death'—were all, in the eyes of these men, 'madmen' and 'lunatics.'

It was necessary that some one should bear the standard of Liberty into the enemy's camp, and by so doing, whether he stood or fell, arouse this great nation from the lethargy and death, which have come over the spirit of a once free people. It has been the policy of wise statesmen in all ages, to clothe the humblest citizen with the concentrated power and inviolability of the whole empire. It was enough for one, amidst the wildest barbarians, to say, 'I am a Roman citizen,' and he was safe. No country in Europe is so careful of individual and national glory as France, the first nation in Europe; and England, a few years ago, was ready to peril her thirty millions of lives on the rescue of a single subject. It cannot, therefore, be less than madness in the American people if they expect long to live as a nation, and not to fall an easy sacrifice to foreign aggression, or internal anarchy and despotism, to look coolly on, when even the humblest of those contending for constitutional liberty and national honor, are overborne and trampled down in the battle. Surely that nation cannot live long, far less be free, that sees, time after time, whatever of spirit and manly independence may any where exhibit itself, crushed, and utterly extinguished.

I thank you then, and the people of Cincinnati my fellow-citizens, men gathered under the same national Constitution to which I owe allegiance, and which owes me protection, brothers of the same blood inherit ng the same proud recollections of the past, and looking in the future to the same inseparable destiny, that you have not cowered before the slave power; but that you stood by the friendless, the powerless, the fallen, and dared to speak out for constitutional republicanism and eternal justice, which have been violated in my person. Above all, am I deeply effected by the fact, that you assembled in 'mass meeting' without distinction of party; and as both parties here lost in overwhelming subservience to slavery, so you of the free states, begin to unite in the defence of your own rights, and in the cause of national liberty.

If the Whigs and Democrats and Liberty men shall become really what they assume, then is half my work accomplished, and the republic safe—for though my state should sink into irrevocable despotism, the evil will be left some where on this wide continent, a home for the exile and the oppressed.

With regard to the Press I would briefly remark, that my banner, 'God and Liberty,' will never be struck.

Though overpowered by numbers, I have the same unconquerable will and defiant spirit, as though the day had not gone against me. It is for those who fight for the wrong, to despair in defeat.

I shall not 'die through mortification,' as my enemies would have it. I trust I shall yet live to see those who, on the 18th of August, 1845, rose in arms, overpowered the civil authorities and overthrew the constitutional liberties of the State, and established on its ruins an irresponsible despotism, hurled from their usurped places of fancied security, and Kentucky yet made free.

If, however, this be a vain hope, still I will not repine, for I should feel prouder to have fallen with her honor than to have ingloriously triumphed with my enemies over the grave of the liberties of my country. With gratitude and admiration, I am your friend and obedient servant,

C. M. CLAY.

Fun on the Kennebec.

The Harmonean Family have recently made a visit to Augusta, and there given their mixed concert—black and white to the great delight of many. Shortly after, the editor of the Maine Farmer, published in that town, left home on an excursion in search of pleasure and health, and left the "D—l" of the office to occupy the editorial chair in his absence. The following is a part of the result of these facts:

'Hello, Hey, I's got a so numberbus wat I wants to ax ye. Why am de readers ob de Augusta Age like many ob our cultured breddren ob de South?'

'Bekase—bekase—ye—ne. Cuff, I guys 'im up.'

'You is a werry knowin' individual nigger, dats a fact. Take hold, Cuff; you dese yes de been for you highdifferus mental disciplinshun.'

There are now two companies in St Louis for the recovery of machinery, damaged goods, &c. from sunken steamboats. They employ a large number of hands who operate when the water is low with great success. A vast amount of property is annually saved in this way, and a ware house has been established in St. Louis for the storage and sale of articles rescued from wrecks.

In the new Constitution of Texas, it is proposed to incorporate this novel feature, that each citizen of the new State shall hold his farm, of a certain size, free from all claims and legal process. Of course, if a man wants credit it must be had on some other basis than the land he owns. Such a provision, it is thought, will have a good effect by the strong inducements it holds out to every citizen to become interested in the soil.

Absalom F. Boston a colored man, has commenced a suit against the town of Nantucket, on account of the school committee having refused to admit his daughter Phebe Ann Boston, into one of the public schools on the 2d day of June last. The town, in town meeting have voted to defend the suit.

A Curiosity.

There is now in the possession of John L. Dimmock, Esq., a curiosity in the shape of a mass of newly manufactured coral fire-stone, several inches in diameter, in which are firmly embedded several Spanish dollars. It is a specimen of the treasure found by an American company, organized in Baltimore, in the wreck of the Spanish ship San Pedro, which was burnt and blown up, Feb. 11th, 1815, near the island of Cocho, on the coast of Venezuela, Central America. It is supposed that the ship had on board when she was destroyed, several hundred thousand dollars, a portion of which has been found by our enterprising countrymen, and brought away. They will probably become in good time, masters of the whole treasure. Only thirty years have elapsed since this vessel was sunk, and the specie which she scattered over the coral reefs and sands, yet the formation of the rock is perfect, consisting of coral and shells, in which is also a piece of the wood work of the ship. In this respect it will possess great interest for the geologist.—[Boston Journal

Government of the Thoughts.

You esteem it a dreadful thing to be obliged to live with persons who are passionate and quarrelsome. You undoubtedly judge right it is like living in a house that is on fire. Dismiss, therefore, as soon as may be all angry and wrathful thoughts. They canker the mind, and dispose it to the worst temper in the world; that of fixed malice and revenge. Never recall the ideas of ruminate upon past injuries and provocations. This is the amusement of many in their solitary hours; but they might as well pay with cannon balls or thunder-bolts. They may work themselves up to distraction—to hate every thing and every body; and to have the temper and disposition of the Destroyer himself.—Anger may steal into the heart of a wise man, but rests only in the bosoms of fools. Make the most candid allowances for the offender; consider his natural temper; turn your anger to pity; regard him as ill of a very bad temper.

Mills, Factories, &c.

The workmen are now going on briskly in the erection of a cotton factory, 200 feet long, near the dam. A saw mill with six saws and a flour mill with six run of stones are to be commenced soon on the west side of the river, all upon a rock foundation. The ledges on that side make it easy to control the water power in freshets. The next thing ought to be a woollen factory with a capital of half a million more.—There is plenty of room, plenty of water, plenty of wool in the neighborhood, plenty of men ready to work, and plenty of farmers in Kennebec ready to feed them and furnish them either with "plain duffs of chicken fixins," as they say at the South. Relics of the Red Men.

The whole number of Indian tribes west of the Mississippi, is forty five. The number of these tribes is 236,799. In various parts of the United States there are nine tribes, from which 79,448 have been removed to the west of the Mississippi, and 92,013 still remain east. There are also six tribes remaining east, from whom none have as yet been removed. The entire number of red men east and west of the Mississippi, is estimated at 394,585.

On these lands there are 1,537 slaves, and the annual product is about 10,000 bales cotton.

The Hoosier Gal.

The heart proclaim'd her peerless, and her eye
Beamed forth the hues of a bright summer sky;
Her cheek in tint outvied the fairest rose;
And, oh! how beauteous was her flaxen hair;
Each glance would ever some sweet charm disclose,
As if the fairing gods had heaped them there,
I long besought her, fondly to be mine—
A thoughtful shade was seen her face to cross,
As if she dwelt on all she must resign,
And then she murmur'd, 'Well, I will, old Jose!'

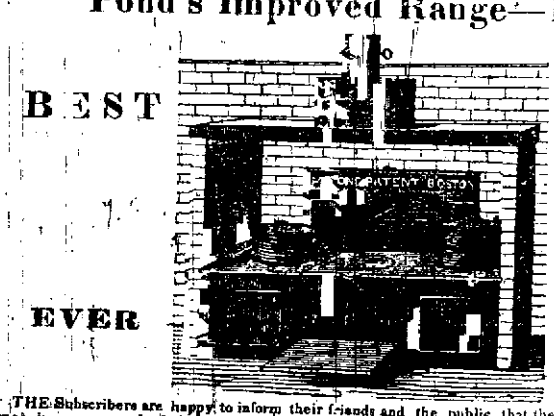
Pond's Improved Range—1845.



THE Subscribers are happy to inform their friends and the public, that they have recently made such improvements in their COOKING RANGES, as to combine great perfection in their operation with much economy in the consumption of fuel, their new Range not requiring more than two thirds as much fuel as the old one.

In our new improvement the Flues and Dampers are so arranged that each Flue will draw well with all the Dampers open, or either Flue may be used separately.

All the Flues are connected with the Oven, causing it to bake even, with a small quantity of fuel and rendering it entirely unnecessary to change the articles while baking. Our patterns are entirely new, and regard has been had to durability in their construction and simplicity in their use.

An entire alteration has been made in the arrangement for Warming additional rooms affording a much larger quantity of Hot Air than could be obtained by the former method, and so arranged as to entirely prevent the air being rendered impure by the gas from the coal, or the smoke from cooking.

After more than twenty years' experience in the manufacture of various kinds of Cooking Apparatus, we believe we now offer to the public a Range superior to any heretofore used—and when under our direction we warrant them to give entire satisfaction.

The above Ranges are manufactured of various sizes, and for sale at No. 23 Merchant's Row by MOSES POND & CO.

The Subscribers are happy to inform their friends and the public that they have been appointed Agents for the sale of the above Ranges, and have one now set and in operation at their store, and will with pleasure exhibit to the citizens of Bangor and vicinity. They also have on hand all of the most approved patterns of Cooking and Parlor Stoves, low for cash.
